

Futureland

Although this is the last Volunteerland tour stop, we hope it will be a beginning, not an end for you.

- Keep in touch with me to find out about future FVC events and to share your volunteer survey, initial or updated.
- If you are not currently volunteering, we hope you will think about it and start volunteering in the near future.
- Maybe participating in a nationwide event, like Join Hands Day held on June 16, 2001 and sponsored by The Points of Light Foundation, would be fun for you.
- Or consider one-day local events, like Habitat for Humanity's "Building Homes and Renewing Hope from the Inside Out," held July 21, 2001.

Thank you for taking our Volunteerland tour!

- Current volunteers, we appreciate your contributions to our community!
- Future volunteers, if FED BEAR can find the perfect volunteer opportunity, so can you!

My name is FEDBEAR and I'm a member of the Federal Volunteer Corps. I am hoping to volunteer at the Beeland Honey Farm (yum!).

Rather than just increased volunteerism, we're trying to find a way to really solve problems. We need the twin engines of (government sustained) full-time service and millions of casual volunteers. We want to do what never has been done in these complicated modern times but was commonplace in frontier times in small towns, such as raising barns or building schools with citizen labor.

Harris Wofford, CEO, The Corporation for National Service